FOR THE EXPERIENCED INSURANCE MAN TO CONSIDER. The best draft horse in the world can do but inferior service if his collar does not fit and his harness is not properly adjusted. Many men of first-class ability are only half-way succeeding because they are not harnessed right. They occupy back seats because the front seats are taken. The superior man is often doing the inferior work. If you are in the right harness, by all means keep it on. If your collar pinches or your traces don't pull even; if you have a right to be in the front row, and some one is keeping you out of it, you we lit to yourself to get into proper harness—to go where you can get a front seat. We want good men for good agency positions in Virginia and North Carolina.
